

Kathrina Bryen
Vice President Organisational Capability
Aurizon

Kathrina Bryen has more than 25 years' experience in human resources working across both the public and private sectors in the fields of learning and development, industrial relations employment and transformational change.

Kathrina played a key role in the separation and subsequent ASX listing of Aurizon (then QR National) from the government-owned passenger and rail operations in 2010, managing the people component. She is currently the Vice President Organisational Capability for Aurizon.

She has been responsible for the Aurizon's national functions of employment and workforce planning, career transition, capability, talent and succession, diversity and cultural change.

Kathrina is a passionate advocate of the value diversity brings to a company and has been integral in working with Aurizon's leaders on an integrated approach to building a more diverse, engaged workforce delivering world-leading service to its customers.